Datasection Inc. (Head Office: Shinagawa-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director, President and CEO: Norihiko Ishihara; Tokyo Stock Exchange Growth Market: 3905; hereinafter, the “Company”) hereby announces that the Datasection Group has received formal investment approval from the Thailand Board of Investment (“BOI”) for its AI infrastructure development project.

A Nationally Significant Project Alongside Leading Global Companies

Against the backdrop of global manufacturers restructuring their supply chains across Southeast Asia, the Thailand Board of Investment has approved nine major investment projects in high-value sectors, including artificial intelligence, advanced electronics, aviation, clean energy and food manufacturing.

Among these projects, the Datasection Group’s investment in AI infrastructure has been formally approved as an initiative expected to contribute to strengthening Thailand’s advanced electronics and digital industry value chains.

The approved projects also include major investments by global companies and businesses supporting national infrastructure, such as a large-scale expansion of production facilities by Nestlé Thailand, the Thai subsidiary of the Swiss food and beverage group Nestlé, and aircraft leasing by Thai Airways International to strengthen its fleet.

A Shared Vision for Thailand’s AI-Driven Future

In connection with the approvals, Mr Narit Therdsteerasukdi, Secretary General of the Thailand Board of Investment, commented:

“These investments by leading multinationals signal strong global confidence in our industrial capacity. By locating key parts of the AI and advanced electronics value chain here, we are connecting our economy directly to the core of next-generation global technology.”

The Datasection Group’s investment in AI infrastructure is aligned with the policies of the Thailand Board of Investment and Thailand’s strategy to foster high-value industries.
